Urban Studies Mission Statement and Intended Outcomes:

The Urban Studies Master's degree is both academic and professional, offering students a liberal arts approach to the understanding of the operation of urban social processes and their implications, and a set of research and policy tools designed to equip the urban policymaker for success in his or her career. The intended outcomes are:

1. Students will be able to conduct independent research in the field;
2. Students will be able to communicate appropriately to both professional and lay audiences, in written and oral forms; and
3. Students will have a social science knowledge base so as to understand urban social processes and their implications.

Please assess the student's completed project in terms of the Urban Studies Program's Mission Statement and Intended Outcomes.

1. Please assess how well this project demonstrates the student's ability to conduct independent research.
2. Please assess how well this project demonstrates the student's ability to communicate the findings appropriately.
3. Please assess how well this project demonstrates the student's understanding of urban social processes and their implications.
